Friday, March 21, 2025

University of Connecticut, Storrs

The America 250 | CT Commission's 2025 Conference, Shaping a Commemoration Rooted in Belonging, will be hosted at UConn Storrs on March 21, 2025. The conference builds upon the success of Declaring Freedom in March 2024, which featured Governor Ned Lamont and included panelists from a variety of organizations around Connecticut.

The conference will be anchored by opening and closing keynote speakers and will include a variety of breakout sessions tied to the themes of the Commission: Power of Place, For the Common Good, Tell Inclusive Stories, and Doing History.

Sponsors will have visibility with a wide-ranging audience, including leaders in the arts, culture, and tourism sectors, municipal government, and education.

About the Commission

July 4th, 2026 marks the 250th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. The America 250 | CT Commission was created to help Connecticut commemorate this milestone. In addition to honoring 1776, the Commission aims to inspire grassroots efforts that promote inclusivity and belonging among Connecticut's residents, looking back beyond the last 250 years and ahead toward a shared future.
